ORDER

ALISON J. NATHAN, District Judge:

On September 26, 2017, the Court issued an Amended Memorandum Opinion & Order in the above-captioned action, concluding, in part, that the Plaintiffs had failed to make a prima facie showing of personal jurisdiction over Viktor Khrapunov under New York law, but allowing the Plaintiffs to conduct additional jurisdictional discovery. Dkt. No. 426 at 45-52.

On June 20, 2018, Viktor Khrapunov renewed his motion to dismiss the crossclaims for lack of personal jurisdiction. See Dkt. No. 736. In opposing his motion, the Plaintiffs argued that Viktor Khrapunov had not sufficiently participated in jurisdictional discovery and filed a cross-motion to compel him to participate in further jurisdictional discovery. See generally Dkt. No. 768. Per the Court's referral of this action to Magistrate Judge Parker for general pretrial supervision, Judge Parker considered the Plaintiffs' cross-motion to compel, granting the motion in part on July 23, 2018. See Dkt. No. 800.

Accordingly, the Court hereby DENIES Viktor Khrapunov's renewed motion to dismiss without prejudice to his ability to file a new motion to dismiss after the close of jurisdictional discovery.

This Order resolves Dkt. Nos. 736 & 739.

SO ORDERED.
